The Technology Transfer Center at the University of Connecticut is Connecticut’s Local Technical Assistance Program, one of 58 centers in the United States. Our mission is to foster a safe, efficient and environmentally sound surface transportation system by improving the skills and increasing the knowledge of the transportation workforce in Connecticut.

The Technology Transfer Center provides education and technical assistance to members of Connecticut’s Transportation and Public Safety community. The University of Connecticut is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity institution. No state-appropriated funds were used to print this material.

Roundtable Description:
This roundtable will focus on challenges that supervisors and front line workers face in their crews as well as strategies for improving team effectiveness. Discussion will include examples from around the state of how some departments have been successful in improving their teams.

Who Should Attend:
This program is designed for all municipal highway officials, particularly those who are interested in improving their departmental structure and morale. Directors of Public Works, Highway Superintendents and Foremen are encouraged to attend.

We will discuss the following questions:
- Are team dynamics impacting the effectiveness of your department?
- Are you tired of doing things the same way they have been done for years?
- Do you want to improve and make change to how your team works with each other?

Please submit questions in advance and we will build them into the agenda so you can get answers and input from your colleagues.

If mailing registration with payment, please be sure to also fax your registration to secure a space. Please direct any questions to Shelly Desjardin at (860) 486-9373.

Facilitator:
Dr. Rockie Blunt is president of Blunt Consulting Group, a Massachusetts-based firm that offers management and workplace communications training services to companies and organizations throughout New England. Rockie is also an adjunct instructor in continuing and career education at Assumption College.
