Supervisory Skills
Creating a Positive Team Environment

A CT Road Scholar Program Required Workshop

By attending this dynamic workshop, you will enhance your role as a municipal supervisor and learn to create a cooperative team. This workshop will give you the fundamentals of successful supervision and provide you with tools you can use to build a positive and respectful environment to set the stage for the success of your team.

Who Should Attend

This workshop is designed for all municipal highway officials, particularly those responsible for the supervision of others and those new to supervision.

Directors of Public Works, Highway Superintendents, Crew Leaders and Foremen are encouraged to attend.

Course Instructor

Jerri Mizrahi is the Learning and Organizational Development Manager at Boise State University providing coaching, counseling and organizational development and design services. Jerri has developed and facilitated multiple programs specializing in communication; strategic planning; organizational development; work group consultation and team-intervention. Jerri's personal mission is to partner with others to create organizational and personal transformation where individuals and organizations grow and break patterns that no longer serve their best interest.
